It seems doubtful if the first portion of Condition No. 3 / Counting one's failure in an examination or test as a default / can be justified or enforced later on.

The candidate can only be diligent in his work & do his best; but cannot sometimes be responsible for the result of his work.

The covenant insists on a refund of the stipend in such cases also —

It is only a check on laziness. It does not matter. Might be taken into account when an actual case arises

Sir,

File for ref. in letter G. 391

Adverting to Government Order No. 6285-6 Med. 12-12-8, dated 19th February 1913, sanctioning the entertainment of 12 young men for being trained in the art of compounding for a period of 8 months, on a subsistence allowance of Rs 5/- per month, I have the honor to state that these men may refuse to take up temporary appointments when offered, especially when they have to be posted to any out-of-the-way places - and they cannot be compelled to do so in the absence of any binding contract.

2. I therefore request that like stipended pupil Sub Assistant Surgeons, these pupil compounders may be made to execute a covenant binding themselves to serve the Government, if required, for a period of 3 years as Compounders of the last class, in consideration of their being trained at Government cost or to refund the amount of subsistence allowance received by them.
